Numerous aerospace and defense companies as well as branches of the US military utilize TowerJazz's specialty process platforms to manufacture a wide variety of solutions. Raytheon in particular utilizes TowerJazz's advanced CMOS process in its Newport Beach fab for the manufacture of its ROIC designs in support of their overall infrared detector products and systems. In addition, Raytheon takes advantage of TowerJazz's manufacturing expertise which helps maintain high yields and quality for downstream detector manufacturing steps.

"We are very pleased to accept this award from Raytheon NCS for the second year in a row as it acknowledges that we have achieved our goal to continue supporting this partnership with the highest level of dedication and commitment," said Mike Scott, Director of Sales and Marketing – USA Aerospace and Defense Division, TowerJazz. "We place tremendous value on our customer relationships and we are honored to be trusted by such a highly regarded company dealing with extremely vital assignments."
